JOHN PROOKS LEAVITY CALLS ATTENTION TO THE ARRANGEMENT OF A CERTAIN CAFE-MR. CONSTABLE FAILS TO ANSWER

HIS LETTERS.

Reports of a speech by John Brooks Leavitt at the Citizens Union mass-meeting at No. 232 East Broadway, on Friday evening, attracted much attention yesterday on account of the attacks which were made upon Corporation Counsel Scott and Stevenson Constable, the Superintendent of Buildings. Mr. Leavitt was asked yesterday what he meant by saying of Mr. Constable: "I know of one disgraceful 'pull' where he gave one citizen a great benefit, to the injury of another." To the inquiry, made by a Tribune reporter, Mr. Leavitt replied in this way:

Why is It that the Buildings Department has never taken any step to remove the unlawful frame structure, about two years old, which Second-ave., and which is a dangerous menace to neighboring property? Why was it that when Mr. Leavitt on two separate occasions wrote to Mr. Constable courteous letters in regard to the matter no attention was paid to Why was it that within a month an alleged illegal structure in front of No. 156 Second-ave, was chopped down, while an exact-

Both places are patronized by Germans and Hungarians, who love to play a quiet game of pinochle over a round table which has room for some glasses of beer, and the favorite spot in each café in warm weather is the garden in the rear. The front gardens, which were made by covering the front yards of the houses with awnings and planting evergreens at the sides, have been favorite spots The platform of the rear garden at No. 158 Second-ave, was erected many years ago, and Mr. Rosenfeld has covered it with an awning. Recently men from the Bureau of Encumbrances came along and chopped down the front garden. Mr. Rosenfeld said yesterday that a complaint was made also against the front garden of the Café Manhattan, but Stampfer's political friends

The rear garden of the Café Manhattan, at No. 145, was put up within two years, the neighbors allege, in violation of the building laws, which prohibit the erection of frame structures without special permits. Complaints against the rear garden were made by some of the neighbors, and inspectors of the Department of Buildings made inspectors of the Department of Business made investigations. The reporter was told yesterday that one of the inspectors reported that the gar-den had been erected a long time ago, and it was impossible to ascertain who erected it. Then information was sent to Mr. Constable that Stamp-fer had put up the garden since Mr. Constable had held the office of Superintendent of Buildhad held the office of Supermentent of Danielings. Another inspector was sent around, the neighbors say, and he reported that, while the frame structure might be a menace to other houses in case of fire, it was already up and could not be torn down. It is still there, and Mr. Constable has taken no step, so far as could be learned yesterday, to have the illegal structure.

REAR-ADMIRAL SAMUEL P. LEE.

Washington, June 5.-Rear-Admiral Samuel Phillips Lee, U. S. N., retired, the last of the command-ers of great squadrons in the Civil War, died at his home, at Silver Springs, near this city, at 5 o'clock this afternoon after a short illness from a stroke of paralysis. He was a direct descendant of "Light Horse Harry" Lee, of Revolutionary fame. Admiral Lee's war record was one of the brightest in American naval annais, rie was on the Vandalia at Cape Town when he learned of the breaking out of the war, and he returned the ship to the support of the Union and took part in the blockade of Charleston and in the attack on Fort Jackson. New-Orleans, where, in command of the guard division of the flect, he fought the fort in the Oneida to protect the operations of the mortar batteries below. Standing on the forecastle, he piloted the ship by the fortifications, releving the Varuna and capturing Captain Kennon and others. In the 'ast three years of the war he held important naval commands, and his system of steam blockade then devised has been followed ever since. In the work of blockade he captured or destroyed fifty-four steamers and sent out ninety-one expeditions.

In 1864 he was assigned to the Mississippi Squadron, and in December of that year, when Hood was advancing on Nashville and the safety of Thomas's army depended on the prompt arrival of reinforcements and supplies, he kept open the Cumberland River, which was the only channel of communication. For this service he was highly compilmented by General Thomas and received the thanks of Congress.

Admiral Lee was born in Fairfax County, Va., on Horse Harry" Lee, of Revolutionary fame. Ad-

He was president of the board to examine volunteer officers for admission into the Navy in 1864-61, and in the latter year commanded the North Atlantic fleet. He was retired in 1873.

FLOUR AS A FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

PROMPT AND EFFECTIVE ACTION BY A CONEY ISLAND POLICEMAN.

The quickness of Policeman Sheehan and his novel method of extinguishing a fire yesterday afternoon saved the Coney Island Fire Department a serious fight.

oon after 3 o'clock a pot of boiling fat overturned in the kitchen of a restaurant on the Bow-ery and set fire to the floor. Sheehan, who was passing, heard the cry of fire, and, rushing into the place, picked up a barrel of flour and poured it on the flames, putting them out instantly, with a loss of $10. The block in which the restaurant is situated is composed of frame buildings and if the fire once gained a headway the entire block would probably have been consumed.
